

Update the Ergo repository list

Introduction

The intent of this tutorial is to update the list of repositories for Ergo. Previously, this information was served from a webserver that is listed in the Ergo preferences. This file has since been bundled with Ergo. Depending on which version of Ergo you are using, you may need to force Ergo to synchronize the repositories. To do this, do the following:

After launching Ergo, do the following to update the catalog view:

1. Click the () synchronize repositories button in the catalog view. This will read the repositories.xml file and show a list of repositories that are available. You should see something similar to the image below:

2. Check the box next to Ergo-EQ Public Repository and click Finish.

Your catalog view should now look similar to the one below:
